Anti-Leakage Evaluation Dataset

Checking and grading the 240 frozen queries of memecap_eval_v1: four lexical gates, then a deterministic Grade 2 / Grade 1 / Grade 0 ground truth over the 6,378-image gallery.

What this document answers

memecap_eval_v1 is the frozen benchmark used to compare Strategies A, B and C. This document explains how its 240 queries are checked for annotation leakage and how each query is graded, then prints the result for every query. 240/240 queries pass the leakage check. Every query has exactly one Grade 2 source image; 15 visual queries add 99 Grade 1 near-duplicate judgments; every other gallery image is Grade 0.

| Item | Value |
|---|---|
| Query set | 240 frozen queries — 80 visual, 80 intent, 80 metaphor |
| Source pool | 558 unseen test memes · gallery 6,378 images (5,820 trainval + 558 test) |
| Leakage check | 240/240 PASS · max 8-gram 0 · max copied run 4 (limit <5) · max Jaccard 0.500 (limit <0.60) |
| Ground truth | 339 explicit judgments — 240 Grade 2 + 99 Grade 1; Grade 0 is every remaining gallery image |
| Who grades | Deterministic rules only — no model or human relevance judgment |

Two axes — keep them apart

Query axis (checking). Does the query copy its source annotation? PASS means leak-free. This is the outcome the presentation labels “Grade 0 leak-free queries”. All 240 are PASS.

Image axis (grading). For one query, which gallery images are relevant? Grade 2 is the source test meme, Grade 1 is a deterministic near-equivalent, and Grade 0 is every other image. These grades describe images, not the query verdict. The same numbers are used on both axes, so this document names the axis explicitly.

1. What the dataset is memecap_eval_v1 contains 240 queries written from the 558 images in the test split of Meme-Cap. The split is balanced: 80 visual queries describe what is visible, 80 intent queries paraphrase the meme's intended meaning, and 80 metaphor queries name the cultural template or metaphor the meme invokes.

The queries are rewrites, not captions. That is the point of the anti-leakage design: Strategies B and C retrieve through the gallery's annotations, so a query that reused an annotation's wording could be matched by BM25 or a dense encoder on the copied phrase. Such a query would measure the annotation, not the retrieval model. Every candidate query must therefore pass four lexical gates before it is frozen.

The dataset then has two layers. Checking decides whether a query is leak-free. Grading records which gallery images count as relevant to that query. They are independent: a leak-free query can have more than one relevant image (a near-duplicate meme), and a query with one relevant image can still leak. The next two sections take each layer in turn.

2. Checking: the four leakage gates

The gate is applied query by query. Each candidate is compared with its own source annotation and with every annotation in the gallery; it is frozen only if it passes all four checks.

| Gate | What it rules out | Rule | Observed on the 240 |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 · 8-gram overlap | Copied phrasing from the source annotation or from any gallery annotation | = 0 shared 8-grams | max 0 (source) · max 0 (gallery) |
| 2 · Short-caption containment | A whole 3–4 word caption pasted inside a longer query — no 8-gram can catch it | no contained short annotation | 0 source · 0 gallery |
| 3 · Contiguous copy run | A long verbatim fragment even when it is shorter than 8 tokens | < 5 tokens shared with the source | max 4 (limit < 5) |
| 4 · Token Jaccard | Diffuse copying: keeping most of the caption's vocabulary without a long run | < 0.60 against the source caption | max 0.500 (limit < 0.60) |
| Overall | All four gates, source and gallery | — | 240/240 PASS |

Why four checks?

- 8-gram overlap catches direct copying. A shared 8-token sequence with the source or with any of the 6,378 gallery annotations is a fail. The gallery-wide comparison matters because a query written from one meme can copy a different meme's annotation.
- Short-caption containment catches what an 8-gram cannot: a whole 3- or 4-word caption pasted into a longer query. If the source annotation is short, the query may not contain all of it; the same check runs against gallery annotations.
- The contiguous-run limit catches a long verbatim fragment even when it is shorter than 8 tokens. The longest run shared with the source must stay below `min_copy_tokens = 5`.
- Jaccard catches diffuse copying: a query assembled by deleting words from the caption can keep most of its vocabulary without any long contiguous run. Token-set Jaccard with the source caption must stay below 0.60.

Result. Every query clears every gate. Maximum 8-gram overlap is 0 against both source and gallery; no short annotation is contained; the longest copied run is 4 tokens; the highest Jaccard is 0.500. The check is lexical by design. It asks whether the query's form was copied; it does not ask whether the query is answerable from the image. Answerability is the grading layer's job.

3. Grading: deterministic ground truth

Each query is paired with a graded set of gallery images. The grades are deterministic: the only inputs are the source image, the annotations, and the rules below. No model or crowd judge decides relevance.

| Grade | Object | Meaning | Deterministic assignment | Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2 | image | The source test meme — the intended answer | Exactly one per query: the image the query was written from (`metadata.image_id`) | 240 judgments (1 per query) |
| 1 | image | A near-equivalent meme, or a meme sharing the same rare metaphor | Only these rules fire: visual — another image's caption has Jaccard ≥ 0.8 with the source caption; intent — identical normalized intended meaning; metaphor — shared specific label with document frequency ≤ 10 and similar meaning | 99 judgments (15 visual queries) |
| 0 | image | Every other gallery image | Implicit: the complement of Grades 2 and 1. Not written to the qrels file. For one query: `6,378 − 1 − G1` | the rest of the gallery |

- Grade 2 is exactly one image per query: `metadata.image_id`, the test meme the query was written from. There are 240 Grade-2 judgments.
- Grade 1 adds other near-equivalent answers. On this set the rule fires only for visual queries: 15 queries, 99 judgments, at most 18 images for q0015. Intent and metaphor queries have no Grade-1 images.
- Grade 0 is implicit. It is every gallery image not graded 2 or 1, so for one query it contains `6,378 − 1 − G1` images. It is not written to the qrels file; storing tens of thousands of zero judgments would add no information.

Worked example: q0006 (visual)
a space ranger toy confidently talking at a cowboy toy who looks terrified beside him
Check: PASS — 8-gram 0/0, no short annotation, longest run 3, Jaccard 0.2105.
Grade 2: memecap_memes_yu0t86 (the source test meme).
Grade 1: memecap_memes_ysnilu, memecap_memes_zbvc9a (2 near-equivalent memes).
Grade 0: 6,375 other gallery images (implicit).

4. Summary by category

| Category | Queries | Leak PASS | Max 8g (src/gal) | Max run | Max Jac | Grade 2 | Grade 1 | Queries with G1 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| visual | 80 | 80/80 | 0 / 0 | 4 | 0.500 | 80 | 99 | 15 |
| intent | 80 | 80/80 | 0 / 0 | 4 | 0.353 | 80 | 0 | 0 |
| metaphor | 80 | 80/80 | 0 / 0 | 4 | 0.353 | 80 | 0 | 0 |
| total | 240 | 240/240 | 0 / 0 | 4 | 0.500 | 240 | 99 | 15 |

All categories pass; only visual queries carry Grade-1 images; the highest Jaccard is 0.500, below the 0.60 limit.

5. Per-query checking and grading (240 queries)

Rows are in qid order: q0001–q0080 visual, q0081–q0160 intent, q0161–q0240 metaphor. Leak is the query-level verdict: all 240 rows are PASS, the presentation's "Grade 0 leak-free" outcome. The Grade 2/1/0 columns describe images, not query verdicts. 8g is the maximum 8-gram overlap with the source / with any gallery annotation. Short says whether the query contains a whole short annotation from the source or gallery. Run is the longest contiguous token run shared with the source (limit < 5). Jac is token Jaccard with the source caption (limit < 0.60). Grade 2 source is the image id of the source test meme — one per query. G1 counts Grade-1 near-equivalent images; G0 counts the remaining gallery images (6,378 − 1 − G1).

Table 1. 240 frozen queries; 240/240 pass the four-gate leakage check. Every query has exactly one Grade 2 source image; all other images are Grade 0 unless listed as Grade 1 in Table 2.

6. Grade-1 judgments

Only 15 visual queries carry Grade-1 images. The table lists every id so the grading can be audited. These 99 judgments plus the 240 Grade-2 source judgments are the 339 explicit qrels; every other gallery image is an implicit Grade 0.

7. Provenance

| Source artifact | Role |
|---|---|
| data/eval/memecap_eval_v1.json | 240 frozen queries: query text, category, `metadata.leakage`, and the image-level `grades` map |
| data/eval/memecap_eval_v1.qrels.jsonl | The same grades flattened into 339 judgments (240 Grade 2 + 99 Grade 1) |
| data/manifest.jsonl | Split counts: 5,820 trainval + 558 test = 6,378 gallery images |
| configs/default.yaml | `eval.max_ngram_overlap: 8`, `eval.min_copy_tokens: 5`, `eval.metaphor_max_df: 10` |
| src/tsr/evaluate.py | `check_leakage()` implements the four gates; `build_eval_query()` assigns the deterministic Grade 2 and Grade 1 judgments |

Regenerate with `python docs/make_leakage_grades_pdf.py`. Every number is read from the repository at build time. Retrieval scores are separate from this dataset document; they live in `data/reports/compare.json` and the evaluation report.
