Evaluation benchmark: source vs rewrite

All 240 queries of memecap_eval_v1, paired with the Meme-Cap annotation each was written from. The left-hand source is what the annotator said; the right-hand query is what the retriever actually receives.

What this document contains 240 pairs — 80 visual, 80 intent, 80 metaphor. The three sections use the source field that matches the query category, so the comparison is like-for-like: a visual query is compared with the literal image caption, an intent query with the written meaning, a metaphor query with the metaphor annotation. Every pair keeps its `qid`, so any row can be traced back to the frozen JSON, the qrels and the leakage record.

Category	Pairs	Source field	Max Jaccard
visual	80	img_captions (image description)	0.500
intent	80	meme_captions (intended meaning)	0.353
metaphor	80	metaphors (metaphor = meaning pairs)	0.353

- Leakage gate. All 240 rewrites passed the gate (max 8-gram overlap 0, max token Jaccard 0.50 against a 0.6 threshold). The verdict is stored per query under `metadata.leakage`.
- Not a paraphrase log. The rewritten text comes from `data/eval/rewrites/batch1-6.json`; no model, prompt or reviewer is recorded, and earlier revisions were not kept.
- Ordering. Rows are grouped by category and sorted by `qid` within each section.

How to read a row

The source column quotes the annotation verbatim (multiple captions or metaphor pairs are separated by •). The frozen query is the exact string the evaluator feeds to all three strategies; it is not a retyped or cleaned-up copy. Differences in vocabulary are the rewrite; differences in meaning would be a benchmark error.

Source artifacts	Role
data/eval/batches/batch1-6.json	240 source records handed to the reviewer (annotation snapshot per qid)
data/eval/rewrites/batch1-6.json	240 reviewed rewrites, mapped by qid (the text in the right-hand column)
data/eval/memecap_eval_v1.json	frozen queries, graded qrels and the per-query leakage verdict python docs/make_rewrite_table_pdf.py	regenerates this document from those three files

1. Visual queries (80)

The source is img_captions, the annotator's literal description of the image. The rewrite keeps the scene but drops proper names and rephrases the wording.
